■ WHERE YOU STAND TODAY

On the ground, the Flower Mound location is doing the hard part right — a flawless 5.0 rating and a service homeowners clearly love. The problem is structural: as a national-franchise location, you don't own your website. Corporate controls budgetblinds.com, and your local page (budgetblinds.com/flower-mound) is effectively broken — it 404s or renders near-empty — so the location has almost no controllable web presence. The honest takeaway: your biggest levers are the assets you actually own — your Google Business Profile, your review volume, and a location-owned lead path — not a corporate site rebuild you can't authorize.

■ TOP SHELF SCORECARD

Our assessment of each part of your online presence, graded A–F and backed by the specific findings below.

DIMENSION	GRADE	ASSESSMENT
Google Profile  78	B	A well-formed profile with a perfect 5.0 rating and clear services — the strongest asset you fully control, with real room to grow.
Reviews / Reputation  70	B ⁻	A spotless 5.0, but only 38 reviews. The rating is elite; the low volume caps trust and Map-Pack strength against higher-count rivals.
Website quality  48	D ⁺	The local landing page effectively 404s or is near-empty, and it's corporate-controlled — you can't freely fix it. Almost no owned web presence.

DIMENSION	GRADE	ASSESSMENT
Local / niche SEO  54	C ⁻	No working local page means no local schema, no city content and no organic footprint. The GBP is carrying local visibility almost alone.
Lead conversion  56	C	The free in-home consultation is a strong offer, but it isn't surfaced on a page you control, so there's no reliable local booking path.
OVERALL 	61	C

O2 Google Business Profile Audit

For a franchise location with a broken corporate landing page, the Google Business Profile isn't just important — it's very nearly your entire controllable storefront. It's where 'custom blinds near me' turns into a booked in-home consultation, and it's the one high-value asset you fully own.

ELEMENT	GRADE	SCORE	ASSESSMENT
Business info & hours	A ⁻	 86	Name, phone and service-area setup are clean and consistent; the in-home consultation model is well suited to a service-area profile.
Categories & services	B ⁺	 80	Good coverage of blinds, shades, shutters and motorization, though the full service list (drapery, motorized treatments) can be made more explicit.
Photos & media	C ⁺	 66	Some project photos exist, but volume and recency are thin — a window-treatments buyer wants to see lots of real installed rooms before booking.
Google Posts	C	 58	Little to no recent Posts — a free channel being left idle when it could surface the free in-home consult and seasonal offers in the Map Pack.
Reviews & responses	B	 76	A perfect 5.0 is elite, but 38 reviews is low. Volume — not rating — is the constraint. Consistent responses and a review-ask habit will compound fast.
Questions & answers	C ⁻	 52	The Q&A section is largely empty; seeding common questions (pricing, brands, how the free consult works) would pre-answer hesitant buyers.
Map-Pack visibility	C ⁺	 66	The profile ranks for its immediate area, but low review volume and zero owned on-site local signals cap how high it can climb for competitive terms.

Detailed findings

Your profile is the storefront the website can't be

Because the corporate local page is broken, the GBP is effectively standing in for your entire website. That's actually good news: it's the one asset you fully control, and a well-fed profile — fresh photos, monthly Posts, a full Q&A, growing reviews — can carry local demand on its own. The upside here is unusually high precisely because so little else is working.

A perfect rating, but too few voices

38 five-star reviews is a great rating and a thin moat. Homeowners comparing three blinds companies instinctively weigh volume alongside stars — a competitor with 120 reviews at 4.8 can feel 'safer' than you at 5.0/38. Systematically growing review count after every install is the single highest-leverage reputation move you can make, and it costs nothing.

Quick wins for your profile

- Make growing review volume a standing habit — ask every happy customer at install and send a follow-up link; target getting from 38 toward 100+.
- Post to Google 1–2x/month, always featuring the free in-home consultation and any seasonal window-treatment offers.
- Add 10–15 fresh, real project photos (installed shutters, motorized shades, drapery) — this category sells on visuals.
- Seed 6–8 Q&A entries: how the free consult works, brands carried, pricing approach, motorization options, service area.
- Confirm the service-area list explicitly covers Flower Mound and the surrounding towns you actually serve.

How you compare locally Against nearby window-treatment and blinds profiles, your 5.0 rating beats almost everyone on quality — but several competitors carry 3–5x your review volume, post regularly, and back their profile with a working, schema-rich local page. They're not better than you; they're more visible. Closing the review-volume and profile-activity gaps lets your superior rating finally translate into Map-Pack dominance.

03 Website & SEO Audit

■ TECHNICAL & PERFORMANCE

Before a page can rank or convert, it has to actually load, work on a phone, and be readable by Google. For a franchise location this is where the core problem shows up: the page you're pointed at barely exists.

ELEMENT	GRADE	SCORE	ASSESSMENT
Page speed (mobile)	D	 45	Hard to grade meaningfully — the local page effectively 404s or renders near-empty, so there's little real content to load or measure.
Core Web Vitals	D	 44	A broken/thin page can't deliver a healthy LCP or stable layout because there's essentially no substantive content being served.
Mobile-friendliness	C ⁻	 52	The corporate template is responsive in principle, but a near-empty local page gives a mobile visitor almost nothing to act on.
Crawlability & indexing	D ⁺	 48	If the local URL 404s or is thin, Google has little to index for this location — a serious discoverability problem you can't fully fix yourself.
Structured data (schema)	D	 42	No visible LocalBusiness / Service schema on the local page — you're invisible to rich results and AI answers that lean on it.
HTTPS & security	A	 92	The corporate domain is served over HTTPS with a valid certificate — the one technical box that's cleanly checked.

Detailed findings

The technical problem isn't tuning — it's ownership

Unlike a normal small business where we'd compress images and add schema, the core technical issue here is that the local page is broken and corporate-controlled. You can and should push corporate to fix and populate budgetblinds.com/flower-mound. But you shouldn't wait on it — the durable fix is to stand up a location-owned lead page (even a simple one-pager) that you fully control, with proper schema, fast load, and a clear booking path for the free in-home consultation.

Quick wins — technical

- Open a franchise support ticket to fix/repopulate the /flower-mound page (confirm it stops 404-ing and shows real local content).
- In parallel, stand up a simple location-owned landing page you control (fast, mobile-first, one clear CTA).
- Add LocalBusiness + Service schema with your real NAP, service area and hours on whichever page you can control.
- Once a working page exists, submit it to Google Search Console and confirm it's indexed.

■ ON-PAGE & CONTENT

This is what Google reads to decide what you're about and where you serve. Right now, for the local page, there's almost nothing to read.

ELEMENT	GRADE	SCORE	ASSESSMENT
Title tags & meta	D ⁺	48	The broken/thin local page offers weak or generic title/meta signals — no strong 'Custom Blinds in Flower Mound, TX' targeting.
Heading structure	D ⁺	48	With little real content on the local page, there's no meaningful H1/H2 hierarchy tying you to Flower Mound and your services.
Content depth & quality	D	44	The location has essentially no substantive owned content — no service explanations, no local context, no FAQs.
Service pages	C ⁻	52	Corporate has generic national service content, but you have no localized, controllable pages for blinds/shades/shutters in Flower Mound.
Internal linking	C ⁻	54	You inherit corporate's internal linking but can't shape a local hub-and-spoke (service city service-in-city) of your own.
Image SEO	D ⁺	48	Few local images with descriptive, geo-relevant filenames/alt text — a missed, easy relevance signal in a visual category.

Detailed findings

You don't control the story Google reads

The honest constraint: on-page SEO normally means rewriting your own titles, headings and content — but as a franchisee you can't freely rewrite budgetblinds.com. That's exactly why a location-owned page matters. A single well-built local page (with a clear H1 like 'Custom Blinds, Shades & Shutters in Flower Mound, TX', real service copy, local FAQs, and your free-consult CTA) gives you on-page control corporate will never hand you — and a place to actually rank.

Quick wins — on-page

- On your owned page, lead the H1 and title with 'Custom Blinds, Shades & Shutters — Flower Mound, TX.'
- Write short, unique service blurbs for blinds, shades, shutters, drapery and motorization.
- Add a local FAQ block (how the free in-home consult works, brands, timelines, motorization).
- Use descriptive, geo-tagged filenames and alt text on every project photo.

■ LOCAL SEO & RANKINGS

This is where the money is for an in-home window-treatments business — the Map Pack and 'service + city' searches. A perfect reputation should own these; a broken local page and low review volume are holding it back.

ELEMENT	GRADE	SCORE	ASSESSMENT
Map-Pack presence	C+	64	The GBP appears for immediate-area terms, but low review volume and no owned local page limit how high it ranks for competitive keywords.
Organic rankings	D+	48	With no working local page, organic 'blinds + Flower Mound' visibility is minimal — the GBP is doing almost all the local work alone.
NAP consistency	B-	72	Name/address/phone appear consistent on the profile — a decent foundation, though it isn't reinforced by an owned, schema-backed page.
Citations & directories	C	56	Some franchise-level citations exist, but a deliberate local citation push (Flower Mound directories, home-services listings) would strengthen trust.
City-page coverage	D	44	No dedicated, controllable city/service pages for Flower Mound and neighbors — a major local-SEO gap created by the franchise structure.
Competitor gap	C-	54	Better rating than most rivals, but they out-rank you locally with more reviews, active posting, and working, content-rich local pages.

Where you rank today — target keywords (estimated)

TARGET KEYWORD	EST. MONTHLY SEARCHES	YOUR RANK	OPPORTUNITY
custom blinds flower mound	210	#12	High window shutters flower mound tx	110	#14	High
motorized shades near me	1,300	#18	Medium
window treatments flower mound	170	#11	High
blinds installation near me	2,400	#20	Medium
plantation shutters flower mound	90	#13	High

Detailed findings

Estimated keyword positions

The table below is an honest, conservative estimate of where the location currently sits for high-intent local terms, inferred from the broken local page, the GBP's strength, and low review volume. The pattern is consistent: real demand, weak-to-mid visibility, and a clear path upward once you grow reviews and stand up a controllable local page. These are estimates, not measured GSC ranks.

Quick wins — local SEO

- Grow review volume aggressively — it's the fastest lever to lift Map-Pack rank for competitive blinds terms.
- Stand up a location-owned page and add LocalBusiness/Service schema so you finally have an organic footprint.
- Build consistent local citations (Flower Mound + home-improvement directories) with identical NAP.
- Feature the free in-home consultation prominently everywhere you control — it's your differentiated local hook.

■ CONVERSION & LEAD CAPTURE

Traffic only matters if it turns into booked consultations. Your offer — a free in-home consultation — is genuinely strong, but it isn't surfaced anywhere you control, so conversions leak.

ELEMENT	GRADE	SCORE	ASSESSMENT
Click-to-call	B ⁻	72	The phone number is reachable via the GBP, but there's no owned page reinforcing a prominent, tracked tap-to-call for a mobile visitor.
Contact form UX	D ⁺	48	No controllable local form — any lead form lives on the corporate template you can't optimize, so friction and routing are out of your hands.
Online booking	C ⁻	52	No true self-serve scheduling for the free in-home consult — a growing expectation buyers increasingly assume exists.
Trust signals	C ⁺	64	The 5.0 rating is a strong signal, but with only 38 reviews and no owned page to showcase them, your proof isn't working hard enough.
Speed-to-lead & tracking	C ⁻	54	No visible local call/lead tracking, so it's impossible to know which searches actually drive booked in-home consultations.

Detailed findings

Your best offer has nowhere to live

The free in-home consultation is exactly what a hesitant homeowner wants — no obligation, expert help, real fabric and samples at their window. But because the local page is broken and corporate-controlled, that offer isn't surfaced on anything you own. Standing up a simple location-owned booking page — one clear CTA ('Book your free in-home consultation'), your 5.0 reviews, and call tracking — would turn a great offer that's currently invisible into a measurable stream of booked jobs.

Quick wins — conversion

- Create one owned landing page whose single job is to book the free in-home consultation.
- Add a simple scheduler or short 3-field form (name, phone, ZIP) with 'we reply within the hour.'
- Showcase your 5.0 Google reviews on that page to convert hesitant, high-ticket buyers.

- Add call/lead tracking so you can see which terms and photos actually drive booked consults.

04 Priority Fixes & Next Steps

Ordered by impact. We start at the top — the fastest ways to turn your existing traffic into more booked calls.

- 1 Grow your review volume — Your 5.0 rating is elite but only 38 voices deep. Make a review ask part of every install; getting toward 100+ reviews directly lifts trust and Map-Pack rank — and it's entirely in your control.
- 2 Stand up a location-owned lead page — Because the corporate /flower-mound page is broken and you can't rewrite budgetblinds.com, build one simple page you fully own — with schema, local content, and a 'book your free in-home consultation' CTA.
- 3 Push corporate to fix the broken local page — Open a franchise-support ticket so budgetblinds.com/flower-mound stops 404-ing and actually shows real local content — but don't wait on it; treat it as parallel to your owned page.
- 4 Maximize the Google Business Profile — Monthly Posts, a fuller Q&A, and 10–15 fresh project photos keep your single most valuable owned asset strong and defend the Map Pack.
- 5 Surface the free in-home consultation everywhere — It's your differentiated hook. Make it the headline CTA on every asset you control — GBP, Posts, and your owned page.
- 6 Add local citations + call tracking — Consistent Flower Mound citations strengthen local trust, and call tracking finally shows which efforts turn into booked consults.

■ YOUR FIRST 30 DAYS

The first 30 days focus on the assets you actually own, in order of leverage. Week 1: launch a review-growth habit (ask at every install + a follow-up link) and open a franchise-support ticket to fix the broken /flower-mound page. Week 2: stand up a simple location-owned landing page whose one job is booking the free in-home consultation — fast, mobile-first, with LocalBusiness/Service schema and your 5.0 reviews on it. Week 3: load the Google Business Profile with 10–15 fresh project photos, a seeded Q&A, and the first monthly Post featuring the free consult. Week 4: build consistent local citations and turn on call tracking so we can measure which searches drive booked jobs. None of this depends on corporate rebuilding their site — it points your already-excellent reputation at the customers searching for you right now, through channels you control.

Your Growth Plan & Solutions · Window treatments — blinds, shades & shutters

The companion to your audit — the real problems we found, what they're quietly costing you, and exactly how Top Shelf fixes each one.

On the ground, you're doing the hard part right — a flawless 5.0 rating and homeowners who clearly love the work. We'll be straight with you: because you're a national-franchise location, some of the usual fixes aren't yours to make. So this plan is built around the assets you actually own and control — where the real, honest wins are. Here's what your audit found, what it's costing you, and how we'd fix each one.

01 What your audit turned up

Three real gaps from your audit — focused on what you can actually control as a franchise location.

1 Your corporate local page is broken

COSTING YOU Corporate controls budgetblinds.com, and your local page (budgetblinds.com/flower-mound) effectively 404s or renders near-empty. So a homeowner who finds you online hits a dead page and bounces — and you have almost no web presence you can actually control.

OUR FIX Rather than wait on a corporate rebuild you can't authorize, we stand up one simple landing page you fully own — with local content, schema, and your consultation booking. We'll also file the franchise ticket to fix the corporate page, but we don't wait on it.

THE RESULT You own a page that actually works and captures consults, instead of sending searchers to a dead end.

2 A perfect 5.0 — but only 38 reviews

COSTING YOU Your rating is elite; your review count is a thin moat. A homeowner comparing three blinds companies instinctively weighs volume alongside stars, and a competitor with more reviews simply looks like the safer bet — even if your work is better.

OUR FIX We make a review ask part of every install and automate the follow-up, steadily building you toward 100-plus reviews.

THE RESULT Your rating and your volume both say “obvious choice,” and you climb the Map Pack while you’re at it.

3 Your free in-home consultation is hidden

COSTING YOU The free in-home consult is your strongest differentiator — and right now it isn’t surfaced anywhere you control, so it’s invisible at the exact moment a homeowner is deciding who to invite in.

OUR FIX We make it the headline call-to-action on every asset you own — your Google profile, your Posts, and your owned landing page — with one-tap booking.

THE RESULT The thing that sets you apart is the first thing homeowners see, and they can book it in seconds.

Does this sound familiar?

Those are the things we could spot from the outside. But you’re the one running the consultations and installs every day — so a few of these probably hit closer to home.

O2 Other things we hear from owners like you

Common headaches for an in-home-consultation business — and what it looks like once they’re off your plate.

Consultation requests slip through or get a slow reply

THE DRAG Homeowners requesting a quote will book whoever gets back to them first — every hour you’re on a job is a lead cooling off.

OUR FIX Instant lead capture with an automatic text back and self-serve booking the moment someone asks.

THE RESULT Every consult request gets an instant response and a booked time, before a competitor even calls back.

Kitchen-table quotes go cold

THE DRAG You measure, you quote, and then it goes quiet — the homeowner stalls or forgets, and the install never happens.

OUR FIX An automatic follow-up sequence on every open quote, nudging gently by text and email on your behalf.

THE RESULT More quotes turn into installs, and none of them die from simple silence.

Past clients forget you for the next room

THE DRAG A happy customer who'd gladly buy blinds for another room — or refer a neighbor — drifts away because nothing keeps you top of mind.

OUR FIX Simple email and text touches to past clients, plus an easy referral ask after a great install.

THE RESULT Repeat orders and neighbor referrals come back to you instead of going to whoever advertises loudest.

■ THE BIGGER PICTURE

This is just the tip of the iceberg.

What you've seen here is only your website and Google presence — one slice of your business. The bigger wins are in the parts we can't see from the outside. Let's grab 20 minutes and sit down together to map the rest of the day-to-day headaches Top Shelf can take off your plate — your audit is yours to keep, and you own everything we build.

Let's set up your sit-down.
